frequently asked questions

Who is this for?

Micellar Prebiotic PreCleanse is made for all skin types and conditions. It's ideal for clients with sensitized skin as well as anyone that wants a thorough, yet gentle make-up remover for traditional and hard-to-remove make-up. It's incredible for clients that desire a thorough, professional-level deep clean, like milky products or are interested in microbiome benefits for the skin.

What are the differences between PreCleanse and Micellar Prebiotic PreCleanse?

PreCleanse has an oil-like texture, comes in a bottle with a pump and is ideal for normal to oily skin. It gently and effectively removes oily buildup from excess sebum, sunscreen, waterproof make-up and pollutants as it soothes, calms, and nourishes skin before a second cleanse.

Micellar Prebiotic PreCleanse has a milky texture, comes in a bottle with a pump and is ideal for all skin types, especially sensitive skin. It uses micelles to gently and effectively remove oily buildup from excess sebum, sunscreen, waterproof make-up and pollutants as it hydrates, nourishes and softens skin before a second cleanse—with the added benefit of helping balance the skin's microbiome with prebiotics.

These formulas are equally effective at removing oily buildup.

How does this fit into my client's existing routine?

Clients can use this morning and evening as their first cleanser in the Dermalogica Double Cleanse and follow with their prescribed Dermalogica cleanser. Clients with any skin condition can choose between PreCleanse and Micellar Prebiotic PreCleanse.

Can it be used over the eyes and mouth—and on lash extensions?

Yes, this can be safely used over the eyes and mouth to remove stubborn make-up. However, advise clients to keep their eyes and mouth closed during use and let them know it is not meant to be ingested. Since oil can dissolve eyelash glue used to affix lash extensions to the natural lash, we recommend clients do not use this while they have lash extensions on.

Is this product appropriate for clients who have sensitive skin?

Yes, it is gentle, with nourishing ingredients. Some people even prefer this for sensitive skin.

Can Micellar Prebiotic PreCleanse be used alone or must it always be a part of the Dermalogica Double Cleanse?

Yes, it can be used alone to remove buildup, provided it is thoroughly wiped or rinsed away. However, we always recommend following with a prescribed Dermalogica cleanser to help ensure a thorough clean.

Can clients use a make-up remover before using this?

Yes, make-up remover can be used prior to this but it is not necessary. Instead, advise clients to thoroughly emulsify Micellar Prebiotic PreCleanse on dry skin prior to rinsing to remove stubborn make-up.
